WELFARE SWEEPSTAKES

MINNESOTA LUCKED OUT when it lost the sweepstakes for Amazon’s new offices.
The winners—New York, Virginia, and Tennessee—will pay a combined $2.4 billion in welfare for the honor of playing host.

The deal involves everyday people subsidi-zizing a company worth $1 trillion, because that’s apparently not enough for Amazon to stand on its own two feet. But at least those states are faring better than Wisconsin, which faces an even worse welfare obligation.

Our neighbor to the east has agreed to a $2.8 billion subsidy of a new Foxconn electronics plant. Bonus round: The company will also get to blow off state pollution laws. Sometimes losing has its advantages.

REVERTING TO HISTORY

Domino's PR stunt finds welcoming arms in Duluth

Pizza giant Domino's has landed on a novel idea: a PR stunt that actually provides some value to its intended target.

You may have seen the commercials. The company is traveling the country, filling $5,000 worth of potholes in selected cities. You know, so your pizza won't do a back flip every time you hit one. The repairs naturally come with a chalk rendering of the Domino's logo.

Last week, Duluth accepted Domino's offer to work the asphalt of the North Shore. Though council members didn't respond to interview requests, Duluth isn't alone in showing a welcome mat. As Eric Norenberg, the city manager of Milford, Delaware, told the Washington Post, broke cities need all the help they can get.

"The program has elicited some complaints about what it means that a pizza chain is funding basic government projects," Norenberg says. "Taking $5,000 from a pizza chain to repair our roads was not a difficult decision."

In Duluth's case, the extra $5,000 is a mere drop in the bucket compared to its needs. The city spends about $1.5 million on maintenance a year, but it could really use about $25 million annually to keep up with its 450 miles of roads—55 percent of which are in "critical condition."

Last year, residents approved a sales tax hike that would have generated $7 million every year to play catch-up, but the measure died in the place good intentions are prone to seeing their demise, the Minnesota Legislature. Meanwhile, drivers navigate broken streets and pray the next unexpected thud doesn't take out an axle.

If the success of this pizza pothole campaign tells us anything, it's that America's infrastructure is woefully underfunded. Being thrown a bone of any size is too tempting to pass up.

Still, University of Toronto professor Mariana Valverde takes the campaign with a heartyslice of skepticism. She's studied what it was like 100 years ago, before American cities took ownership of its roads and sidewalks, which at the time were only cared for by property owners willing to pay for upkeep. "A disaster," she calls that period.

With chronic underfunding of road repairs, cities take their help where they can get it.

If these kinds of stunts become commonplace—say Starbucks pays for sidewalks, or Taco Bell starts buying street lights—it could lead to a future of... well... it's probably best not to imagine it. —HANNAH JONES

A VERY DIE HARD CHRISTMAS

BRYANT-LAKE BOWL THEATER

Explosions, blood, bad guys, and Yuletide wishes will be pouring out of Bryant-Lake Bowl this December, as A Very Die Hard Christmas returns to the stage. The brainchild of Twin Cities theater veteran Josh Carson, this show combines the badass story of John McClane, an off-duty cop turned action-movie icon, with the warmth and charm of some of your favorite Christmas TV specials. Each year, Carson adds and changes material to keep up with current events and pop culture, but he doesn't compromise on the comedy, catchphrases, or holiday cheer that have made the production a holiday staple. Best of all, each show brings in a surprise guest to play the role of Santa Claus. Past cameos have included athletes, actors, musicians, and even former Mayor Betsy Hodges. Come for the fake blood splatter, stay for the spirit of the holidays. Yippee ki-yay, Father Christmas. 10 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays. $15/$18. 810 W. Lake St., Minneapolis; 612-825-3737. December 7-22 —PATRICK STRAIT

A STOCKING FULL OF AWESOME VIII: THE KNIFE BEFORE CHRISTMAS

LAB THEATER

While there are lots of holiday traditions out there, most people would agree that tossing blades is an unusual way to observe the Yuletide. The exception to this rule would be the guys from Danger Committee. Consisting of ace knife thrower Reynaldo (Caleb McEwen) and world-class jugglers Bald Guy and Other One (Mick Lunzer and Jason LeMay), the daring trio will celebrate the season with A Stocking Full of Awesome VII: The Knife before Christmas. As in previous versions of this popular holiday show, the Danger Committee alternates between comedy and cringe-inducing stunts, creating edge-of-your seat entertainment that will have audiences laughing between gasps. Whether lobbing swords or axes, the trio displays coordination as finely honed as the razor-sharp objects they pitch across the stage. And they do it all with ease, exhibiting the precision and timing needed to seize a sparking stun gun or land a disarming joke. 7 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays, plus New Year's Eve; 2 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. $30-$45. 700 N. ## U.S. POND HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

LAKE NOKOMIS

Again this year on Lake Nokomis, hundreds of hockey players of all ages and abilities, along with tens of thousands of spectators, will brave the elements and pack the ice for four days of raw outdoor hockey, just how the hockey gods intended. For over a decade, the U.S. Pond Hockey Championships has attracted hockey nuts from all over the U.S. and Canada, as semi-pros, college standouts, and old guys who aren't ready to hang up the skates square off in hopes of securing the coveted Golden Shovel. There are numerous divisions, allowing men and women of all ages and experiences to channel their inner Charlie Conway, while curious onlookers spend the day playing "Are my fingers missing or just cold?" Food and beer are available for purchase, so you can make a whole day (or four) out of it, but be warned: The warming tent where everyone huddles when they aren't on the ice smells like hundreds of sweaty hockey players. Needless to say, the Pond Hockey Championships aren't for the weak. For complete game schedules, see the official U.S. Pond Hockey website, www.uspondhockey.com. 5 to 9 p.m. Thursday; 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday; 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Free. 5001 Lake Nokomis Pkwy. W., Minneapolis.

SAINT PAUL WINTER CARNIVAL

VARIOUS LOCATIONS

Ice palaces! Royalty! Buttons! Cats! While it's a brutally overused cliché, the annual Winter Carnival in St. Paul really does have something for everyone. For 10 days, our state capital becomes the winter wonderland of the Midwest, with more than 250,000 people filling the frozen streets. There are three parades (Moon Glow Pedestrian Parade, King Boreas Grand Day Parade, and the Vulcan Victory Torchlight Parade, which are also the three coolest parade names ever), a frozen 5K/10K/half marathon, the Sainly City Cat Show, ice skating, a snowplow competition, and the coronation of the Winter Carnival Royal Family. There are barstool and lawnmower races, Polar Plunges, and other competitions, giving you the opportunity to make the event your own. It's kind of like the State Fair, except you're shivering instead of sweating, and with ice sculptures instead of butter. The reality is that it's going to be freezing in January and February whether we like it or not. This is your chance to not only defy the cold, but to celebrate it to the fullest. For complete prices and event schedules, see the official website, www.wintercarnival.com, or call the main hotline at 651-223-7400 for details. January 24 through February 3 —PATRICK STRAIT

10TH ANNUAL WINTER BEER DABBLER

MINNESOTA STATE FAIRGROUNDS

Remember what beer you were drinking in 2009? That's when the Winter Beer Dabbler began. Now celebrating its 10th year, the festival will offer more than 160 breweries pouring more than 500 beers at the State Fairgrounds this winter. While that alone would help anyone brave the elements, what sets the Winter Dabbler apart from other beer fests is its outdoor spirit. Whether the day calls for snow, sleet, or sunshine, thousands of thirsty 'otans will sample dark beers, hazy IPAs, and mouth-puckering sours, all while live bands, outdoor games, and a silent disco add to the party. The homebrew competition will attract beer diehards, sports fans can enjoy activities like keg throws and Hammerschlagen, and foodies will be drawn to the multitudes of food trucks and meat and cheese samples. There's also something for those who don't like the cold: a heated pavilion, which houses a few of the many, many breweries on hand, along with warm food staples. Even in the dead of winter, the Minnesota State Fairgrounds is the place to be. 21+. Find tickets and more info at beerdabbler.com. 3 to 6:30 p.m. 1265 Snelling Ave. N., St. Paul; 651-288-4400.

2018 BRITISH ARROWS AWARDS

WALKER ART CENTER

Originated as the British Television Advertising Awards, the British Arrows Awards is renowned for showcasing some of the most innovative, moving, irreverent, hilarious, and/or bizarre advertising accomplishments of the past year. Though ostensibly developed to pitch products, these entertaining shorts have all transcended their commercial purpose, existing on their own artistically singular terms. Considering the quality of the work, it's no surprise that the Walker Art Center's annual screening of the Awards remains one of the institution's most popular draws, accommodating some 27,000 attendees over the course of the month-long event. Carrying on a 32-year tradition, the 2018 Arrows offers audiences the opportunity to communally enjoy these delightful, engaging works on a screen big enough to contain their audacious scope. Showtimes vary, check online at www.walkerartcenter.org to reserve a seat. $14. 1750 Hennepin Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-375-7600. November 30 through December 30 —BRAD RICHASON

GRAND (RE)OPENING

MINNESOTA MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART

The "M," as it likes to be known, has been on the move for a while, providing glimpses of its marvelous collection through exhibitions at the historic Pioneer Endicott building. Now the M has constructed a permanent home in the complex, designed to create spaces of inclusivity and community that celebrate artmaking and its potential to bring people together. The grand opening includes live music by Lady Xok, performances by SuperGroup, hands-on art making activities, an exhibition that draws visitors into the depth and breadth of the M's collection, and a light installation by David Bowen in the M's new Window Gallery. Rebekah Crisanta de Ybarra kicks off the M's first artist takeover, inviting visitors into her creative process based on Latinx and Indigenous art forms. 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Free. 350 Robert St. N., St. Paul; 651-797-2571. December 2 —CAMILLE LEFEVRE

ELIZABETH PRICE

WALKER ART CENTER

Neckties are loaded with symbolism. Among their connotations are social rank or status, coming of age, a celebration of color or mood, a sign of professionalism or politics, an outward expression of the phallus. All of that, and more, informs the large-scale moving images London-based artist Elizabeth Price has created for the Walker Art Center galleries. In her first U.S. museum commission, Price offers two works: FELT TIP and KOHL. In the first, she layers necktie imagery sourced from photography, animation, and motion graphics to examine gender and workplace. In KOHL, she integrates video from four fictional characters discussing the cosmetic and the material, and coal as a source of energy and fuel. Together, the works present a singular perspective on the body, dress, and gender. 1750 Hennepin Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-375-7600. December 8 through February 23, 2020 —CAMILLE LEFEVRE

DOUGLAS BEASLEY PHOTOGRAPHY

ROSY SIMAS DANSE: WEAVE

ORDWAY CENTER FOR THE ARTS

At a recent rehearsal of Weave, choreographer Rosy Simas asked visitors to close our eyes while the thick sound of crashing waves flooded our senses. When we opened our eyes, we saw five performers “washed up” on the stage. Of different races, physical bearing, movement styles, and genders specific and non, they filled the space with meditative inquisitiveness as they reacted to one another, negotiated shared areas, and expressed choreographic personalities. It was a subtle and grounded weaving together of distinct characters with a sense of equality. Simas (who is Seneca, Heron Clan) and her diverse Native/Indigenous/POC collaborators created the work from stories and experiences gleaned during residencies, workshops, classes, and open rehearsals. Composed of cultural storytelling, film, quadraphonic sound, and movement, the piece wraps the audience in a singular, shared experience of indigenous feminist sensibility. 7:30 p.m. $22-$37. 345 Washington St., St. Paul; 651-224-4222. January 12 —CAMILLE LEFEVRE

ATE9

NORTHROP

Wilco percussionist Glenn Kotche performs in this collaboration with choreographer Danielle Agami and her Los Angeles-based company. Ate9 was founded in the physically virtuosic, emotionally liberating movement methodology known as “Gaga,” which Agami learned as a member of Israel’s Batsheva Dance Company. For this project, she brought together nine dancers to inhabit Kotche’s driving rhythms and aurally inventive score. Percussive and articulate, with a sassy and sensual sensibility, the work is a perfect dovetailing of movement and music, demonstrating that Israel remains a hothouse for the flowering of bold, contemporary dance. 7:30 p.m. $22-$47. 84 Church St. SE, Minneapolis; 612-624-2345.

February 7 —CAMILLE LEFEVRE

THE GREAT LEAP

GUTHRIE THEATER

Although many Americans didn’t think of China as a basketball powerhouse until Yao Ming joined the Houston Rockets in 2002, the world’s most populous country has been playing roundball since the 19th century. Lauren Yee’s 2018 play The Great Leap was inspired by a trip her father took to China as a member of a club team in the ’80s. In the play, an American college team arrives for an exhibition game in the era of the Tiananmen Square protests. Elements of a classic sports story (the gritty, aging coach, the questing young player) unfold in a turbulent setting—and what basketball story would be complete without an ending that comes down to the final buzzer? Director Desdemona Chiang helms the Guthrie’s production of Yee’s comic drama, aiming for nothing but net as her production takes the court on the McGuire Proscenium Stage. “What Lauren’s play does so beautifully,” she says, “is captures the larger tension between the U.S. and China during the ’80s and distills it into personal relationships. We’re able to read larger concerns, and larger consequences, based on the actions of individual people.” 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays; 2 p.m. Sundays. $29-$78. 818 S. 2nd St., Minneapolis; 612-377-2224. January 12 through February 10 —JAY GABLER

ASHWINI RAMASWAMY: LET THE CROWS COME

PARKWAY THEATER

It was only a matter of time before Minneapolis-based Bharatanatyam dancer and choreographer Ashwini Ramaswamy, one-third of the innovative Ramaswamys behind Ragamala Dance, stepped out on her own. The bright, fresh star in the midst of sister Aparna's commanding sensuality and mother Ranee's gorgeous gravitas, Ashwini has been lauded by none other than the New York Times for performances that combine "the human and the divine." For this work in progress, an SPCO Liquid Music Series commission, she teams up with composer/DJ/author Jace Clayton and fiercely poetic dancer Alanna Morris-Van Tassel to explore ancestry, ritual, and tradition. See video of Ramaswamy's Space Residency at the Baryshnikov Arts Center. TU Dance co-founder Toni Pierce-Sands facilitates a post-screening conversation. Find tickets and more info at www.liquidmusic.org. 7:30 p.m. Pay-as-able. 4814 Chicago Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-822-8080. February 11 — CAMILLE LEFEVRE

THE WICKHAMS: CHRISTMAS AT PEMBERLEY

JUNGLE THEATER

Director Christina Baldwin calls The Wickhams: Christmas at Pemberley a "side-quel." What does that mean? Playwrights Lauren Gunderson and Margot Melcon have crafted a follow-up to their play Miss Bennet, which itself was a sequel to Jane Austen's novel Pride and Prejudice. The twist is that The Wickhams takes place simultaneously with Miss Bennet, in the same house. The new play stands on its own, but it will be particularly rewarding for the many theatergoers who packed the Jungle last holiday season for the company's acclaimed production of Miss Bennet. Overlapping cast members will return for The Wickhams, with Angela Timberman joining as a housekeeper. "It's a fun and fulfilling piece of theater by itself," says Baldwin, "but you do have these little Easter eggs of connection that are fun to find." The Jungle is on a roll with original literary adaptations this season: The Wickhams is the second world-premiere commission in a row (in this case, a co-commission), following the superb Little Women. "Jane Austen is for everybody," says Melcon. "I think there is a real opportunity [to] take some of these classic pieces and bring them back with a different perspective." 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays; 2 p.m. Sundays. $35-$45. 2951 Lyndale Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-822-7063. December 1-30 —JAY GABLER

BLACKBIRD

GRAIN BELT WAREHOUSE

Count on Sara Marsh's hard-hitting Dark and Stormy Productions to deliver December fare that's anything but Christmas-y. While Blackbird may be a break from reindeer and snowmen, it's hardly what you'd call escapist entertainment. David Harrower's 2005 play was partly inspired by the terrible true story of Toby Studebaker, the former Marine who met an 11-year-old girl on Neopets and took her to Paris for sex. The play's been produced around the world, including a Broadway show with Michelle Williams, and was adapted into the Rooney Mara film Una. In the Dark and Stormy production, Marsh plays Una, a young woman who approaches her abuser 15 years after an incident resembling the Studebaker crime. Luverne Seifert, an actor who can become an intimidating onstage force, is the middle-aged Ray. In the close confines of Dark and Stormy's Grain Belt studio space, expect a gripping real-time encounter that you won't soon forget... and that might just leave you feeling like a nice Hallmark movie wouldn't be so bad after all. For tickets, visit www.darkstormy.org. 8 p.m. Wednesdays through Saturdays, plus Monday, December 17 (no show December 19). $15-$39. 77 13th Ave. NE., Minneapolis; 612-401-4506. December 13 through January 5 —JAY GABLER

OUT THERE 2018

WALKER ART CENTER

To shock you out of a seasonal obsession with the weather, there's nothing better than some wonderfully weird art, especially the kind that generates a mid-winter mental workout. That's what the Walker Art Center's been bringing to Minneapolis for over three decades now with Out There: an annual month-long festival of adventurous performance art from around the world. The event's international aspect is particularly salient this year, as curator Philip Bither assembles five transnational groups presenting work that responds to life-changing events like nuclear accidents (Berlin's Zvizdal, about an elderly couple who refuse to leave Chernobyl) and war (Lola Arias' Minfield, with veterans from both sides of the 1982 Falklands/Malvinas War revisiting the conflict). Rabi Mroué, a Lebanese artist familiar to Out There regulars, opens this year's festival with a world-premiere performance, Borborygmus, coinciding with the opening of his first U.S.-based gallery installation. In JACK &, Kaneza Schaal and her collaborators explore the toll of prison time and the complicated feelings that accompany release. Showtimes vary, check online at www.walkerartcenter.org to reserve a seat. 1750 Hennepin Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-375-7600. January 11 through February 2 —JAY GABLER

HISTORIC SITES

ALEXANDER RAMSEY HOUSE

Built in historic Irvine Park in 1872, the Ramsey House offers a glimpse of family and servant life from that era. The home of the first territorial governor is one of the nation's best-preserved Victorian-era houses, and many original furnishings remain. 265 S. Exchange St., St. Paul, 651-296-8760; sites.mnhs.org/historic-sites/alexander-ramsey-house.

CHARLES A. LINDBERGH HISTORIC SITE

Original furnishings and heirlooms have been preserved in the house where the aviator and Minnesota native spent his boyhood summers. 1620 Lindbergh Dr. S., Little Falls 320-616-5421; sites.mnhs.org/historic-sites/charles-lindbergh-historic-site.

JAMES J. HILL HOUSE

Completed in 1891, this red sandstone Gilded Age mansion was home to James J. Hill, builder of the Great Northern Railway. Today, the stained glass, a skylit art gallery, and carved woodwork remain intact. 240 Summit Ave., St. Paul, 651-297-2555; sites.mnhs.org/historic-sites/james-j-hill-house.

MINNESOTA STATE CAPITOL

Year-round hours 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon-Fri; 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sat; 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sun. Free guided tours on the hour. 75 Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd., St. Paul, 651-296-2881; sites.mnhs.org/historic-sites/minnesota-state-capitol.

THE LANDING-MINNESOTA RIVER HERITAGE PARK

Now managed by Three Rivers Park District, the site features 40 historic buildings along the Minnesota River and costumed guides who recreate details of life in the river valley at the end of the fur trade to the industrial revolution, from about 1840 to 1890. 2187 Hwy. 101, Shakopee, 763-694-7784; www.threeriversparkdistrict.org.

THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH

PARK SQUARE THEATER

Every show by Girl Friday Productions arrives amid high anticipation. Artistic director Kirby Bennett stages only one play every two years, and she always makes it a big one. The company just produced Thornton Wilder's The Skin of Our Teeth in 2009, but Bennett thinks the time is already ripe to revisit the Pulitzer-winning 1942 masterpiece. "The Skin of Our Teeth explores the nature of human resilience in ways that are unexpected, hilarious, and profoundly moving," she notes in a statement. "And we think the time is right to shine a little light on hope!" Joel Sass will direct Girl Friday's new Skin on Park Square's Proscenium Stage—a step up from the company's gorgeous Idiot's Delight (2017) on the underground Andy Boss Thrust Stage. They'll need plenty of room to roam in Wilder's sprawling, genre-busting allegory that invokes a wide range of historical allusions including an ice age, Moses, and the most ambitious fraternal order in the history of the American stage. At stake is nothing less than the future of the entire human race. No wonder the company took two years to work up to this. 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays; 2 p.m. Sundays. $16-$60. 20 W. Seventh Place, St. Paul; 651-291-7005. February 7 through March 3 —JAY GABLER

THOM YORKE

NORTHROP AUDITORIUM

Will Radiohead ever perform in the Twin Cities again? It's been 21 years since the dystopian British art-rockers (is there any other kind of British art-rock?) unfurled their intricate guitar epics in these parts, and it could be 21 more until they return again. But fans will at least get the opportunity to see the band's frontman, Thom Yorke, perform in the intimate confines of the Northrop Auditorium. Yorke hasn't released a proper solo album since Tomorrow's Modern Boxes in 2014, but he's been busy with soundtrack work. He scored two short films for the fashion house Rag & Bone early this year, and, more significantly, completed his first full film soundtrack, a sprawling 25-track affair, for Luca Guadagnino's remake of Suspiria. This tour will be a collaborative venture with longtime Radiohead producer Nigel Godrich and visual artist Tarik Barri. Together, they'll perform cuts from Yorke's solo discography, including The Eraser (2006), as well as music from Atoms For Peace's Amok (2013). With Oliver Coates. 8 p.m. $33-$58. 84 Church St. SE, Minneapolis; 612-624-2345. December 6 —KEITH HARRIS

TRAVIS SCOTT

TARGET CENTER

Though he remains one of the most divisive rap stars to come along in the past half-decade, Travis Scott converted more doubters than ever before when he released the most futuristic and progressive major-label rap album of 2018, Astroworld. After the Houston native's disappointing joint project with Migos' Quavo last winter, Astroworld more than exceeded expectations. It's a massive blockbuster of an album full of flexes—from the Drake and Weeknd features to Stevie Wonder showing up to play harmonica on "Stop Trying to Be God"—and its audacity results in thrilling highs worthy of the album title (named for the shuttered Houston Six Flags), most notably the beat-switching, Drake-assisted hit "Sicko Mode." And with a trio of rising stars slated to open for Travis at Target Center—boisterous Harlem native Sheck Wes, Young Thug disciple Gunna, and Ohio emo-rapper Trippie Redd—this is easily the must-see arena rap show of the season. 7:30 p.m. $29.95-$89.95. 600 First Ave. N., Minneapolis; 612-673-1300. December 8 —MICHAEL MADDEN

FIRST AVENUE

There are a few unorthodox things about Noname's rise in the rap world. The Chicago native was a dedicated spoken-word poet before she ever started rapping, none of her songs could be unironically described as a "banger," and she doesn't shoot music videos or post much on Instagram. She's even been called the "anti-Cardi B." But with her refreshing style and careful quality control, she's reached a new height in her career with her debut album, Room 25, her first project since the 2016 mixtape Telefone. Rapping over softly pattering beats, Noname (fka Noname Gyps) is a supreme lyricist, unspooling memorable line after memorable line, sometimes about race in America: "Maybe I'm an insomni-black/ Bad sleep triggered by bad government," she raps on "Blaxploitation." All in all, it's been an unconventional path for the 26-year-old, but her arrival as a voice-of-a-generation talent is solidified. ### ELTON JOHN

TARGET CENTER

The bitch is back, for just this one last time—Elton John is the latest aging classic rocker to say goodbye to the road. His Farewell Yellow Brick Road tour, which began in September, will be his last (though he says he'll continue to record), and it passes through Target Center in February. Elton's setlists for this tour have been as crammed full of fan favorites as you'd expect—the guy has more than 50 Top 40 hits, after all. And to show how durable those tunes are, he was the subject of two tribute albums in 2018: Revamp and Restoration. (The latter, in which assorted Nashville stars pay tribute, easily trounces the former, where pop stars take the reins. You really need to hear Lee Ann Womack handle “Honky Cat.” You really don't need to hear Ed Sheeran take on “Candle in the Wind.”) Oh, and if you've got a couple extra bucks left over after you shell out for tickets, John's longtime songwriting partner, Bernie Taupin, has been auctioning off his original handwritten lyrics to many of the pair's hit songs. 8 p.m. $59.50-$249.50. 600 First Ave. N., Minneapolis; 612-673-0900.

CITY OF THE LAKES LOPPET SKI FESTIVAL

VARIOUS LOCATIONS

The Saint Paul Winter Carnival isn't the only festival celebrating the colder months of Minnesota. Each year, the Loppet Ski Festival invites folks of all ages and skill levels to enjoy a variety of winter sports. No matter what your preferred form of cold-weather transportation, there's a race for you. There are dog sledding events, sprints on ice, fat tire bike races, and cross-country tests of endurance. There are loppets for kids and loppets for pros, mini races and marathons. There are kub tournaments for those who prefer games, and a snow sculpting contest for artsy winterers. The Luminary Loppet takes revelers around Lake of the Isles and Bde Mka Ska; skiers, snowshoers, and other nighttime travelers can discover ice sculptures, bonfires, hot cocoa, fire dancers, and a beer tent party with live music. Find festivities in Uptown, Loring Park, Theodore Wirth Park, and Surly Brewing, which will host food trucks while serving up beer. Sign up for a race or find the complete schedule at www.loppet.org/cityoflakesloppet. January 31 through February 3 —JESSICA ARMBRUSTER

ART SLED RALLY

POWDERHORN PARK

There's something joyously ridiculous about art sleds. Each year, neighbors, friends, and families come together to create contraptions that bring warmth to cold hearts in the dead of winter. Sure, these may not be structurally sound. But the sheer glee that comes from people sending their piece de resistance down a hill in Powderhorn Park is just the kind of thing we need in January. Past years have seen a variety of characters and creations make their way—often pretty slowly—to the bottom. Oompa Loompas, a Zamboni sled, child pirates, and LEGOs (riding the double-decker couch, no less) have ridden the snow. Who knows who—or what—will be racing this year. Find more info at artsledrally.com. 2 to 4 p.m. Free. 3400 15th Ave. S., Minneapolis. January 26 —JESSICA ARMBRUSTER

WALKING IN A GINGER WONDERLAND

At Norway House, a sugary seasonal connection to Minnesota's Scandi heritage

NORWAY HOUSE

BY STACY BROOKS

The elegant mansions of Summit Avenue, wisps of icing smoke gently curling from their chimneys. The Stone Arch Bridge, festooned with frosting snowdrifts. Spoonbridge and Cherry, a bright-red gumdrop standing in for one of the title roles. And the sweet smell of gingerbread wafting through the air as an electric train weaves through the edible landscape.

This is the scene at Norway House's Gingerbread Wonderland, which, with a record 11,000 visitors last year, has quickly become a Twin Cities holiday tradition.

Gingerbread Wonderland is more than a festive diversion: It's a way to highlight modern Norway. "We're bringing a contemporary Norwegian tradition to the Twin Cities," says Norway House executive director Christina Carleton, a Norwegian born and raised. That's been the organization's goal since 2004: connecting the United States to the Scandinavian country through arts, business, and culture.

The annual tradition of gingerbread towns, or pepperkakebyen, is relatively new, originating in the city of Bergen in 1991 before spreading to several other Norwegian cities. Houses, cars, trains, and local landmarks are all recreated in gingerbread, with over 2,000 structures making up the cookie Bergen.

Gingerbread Wonderland is even newer—it debuted in 2015—and occupies a somewhat smaller footprint: Last year's installation featured about 80 structures. Creations include elaborate creations by professional chefs—past ginger-buildings have included U.S. Bank Stadium, Paisley Park, First Avenue, and Target Center—plus dozens of houses by skilled amateur bakers, kids, and gingerbread newbies alike.

"More families and kids are getting involved," says Max Stevenson, director of exhibitions and programming. "It makes it more cozy to see the kids' houses next to the huge houses from professional bakers. It's fun to see what everyone in the community comes up with."

"This is a community event," Carleton emphasizes. "We want to involve as many people as possible."

That's why this year, volunteers baked enough gingerbread to make 60 ready-to-assemble kits complete with candy and an icing recipe. The kits were distributed for free, allowing people to participate in the exhibit even if they're short on time or money.

Thanks to that focus on outreach, Gingerbread Wonderland showcases the Twin Cities' cultural diversity in addition to Nordic traditions. Last year, a Vietnamese chef created a gingerbread Buddhist temple, and other structures included a mosque and the Ordway Japanese Garden at Como Park Zoo & Conservatory. Many nontraditional gingerbread houses come from kids, like last year's Candy Land-themed diorama. Stevenson is excited about this year's possibilities: "I just got an email about kids who want to make structures from video games!"

What is it about gingerbread that has such an appeal across cultures and generations? "[As a Norwegian], it seems very natural to me... it smells delicious, it's very koselig," says Carleton, using a Norwegian term that loosely translates to "cozy," much like the Danish concept of hygge.

While there is a competitive component—judges select the Best of Minneapolis, Best of St. Paul, Best Kids', and Most Creative—the most rewarding part of Gingerbread Wonderland for many is the creative process.

"I didn't know we would get so obsessed with it!" says Liz Mullen, executive chef at Chowgirls Killer Catering. For last year's exhibit, the 10-person Chowgirls team re-created the company's headquarters in gingerbread, utilizing their actual blueprints and testing numerous recipes for structural integrity. "It becomes a grade-school art project on steroids."

"We enjoy doing it every single year," adds Sweet Retreat Cupcake Boutique owner Stephanie Kissner, whose prior contributions have included Target Center and the Mill City Museum. "It's always a great challenge to look at the building and figure out how to simplify it but still make it recognizable."

While the scale of these professional creations is impressive, most of Gingerbread Wonderland is crafted by homebakers. Some of last year's attendees were even inspired to go home and build a gingerbread house of their own to add to the exhibit.

"It's a lot of fun, and it's easier than you would think," says Kissner. "It's a fun family activity; the parents can build the house and the kids can decorate. Half the fun is decorating it, everything from just putting candy on it to doing more elaborate piping."

Mullen offers some tips for aspiring gingerbread architects: Start smaller, rather than opting for a tall structure. You want your icing to be the right consistency, and you want a gingerbread recipe that won't spread out too much as it bakes. ("And remember that you can make a crappy one but really decorate it—there's a lot of stuff you can cover up with fake snow!")

This year's Gingerbread Wonderland is expected to set attendance records and will include the Bakken Museum, the St. Paul Hotel, and the Basilica of Saint Mary. Event sponsor and travel company Borton Overseas is commissioning a six-foot-by-three-foot gingerbread feature incorporating their trip destinations.

Also new this year? A collaboration with the nearby Franklin Library. The Norway House crew built a gingerbread house that spent a week on display among the books, and patrons were invited to decorate it before it made the return journey to join the Gingerbread Wonderland exhibit.

Mullen is already looking forward to this year's exhibit, likening it to her childhood tradition of visiting Santaland at Macy's: "I love bringing my kids there and seeing all of them—I'm always amazed every time I go there. It's amazing what people can do."

"For kids, there's excitement about the candy, and for adults, there's nostalgia," Stevenson adds. "It's a shared memory. It allows the imagination to have fun—it's about play."

LA MESA BLESSES BRYN MAWR WITH A TRUE NEIGHBORHOOD BISTRO

Might the little neighborhood bistro be to dining what the little black dress is to fashion?

Just as you can dress up or dress down with this fashion staple, such a bistro offers a gathering place that's a lively cafe by day and doubles as a charming dinner spot by night. It's a place where locals flock to break up or make up, to celebrate or commiserate, to enjoy a solo burger and a beer or to book a birthday dinner for eight. Like the proverbial black dress, a great bistro should be classy, but not fussy—or stuffy. Rather than aiming for "upscale"—polite code for throwing a lot of money at a place—it exudes a spirited elegance that defies a price tag.

Oh, and as price tags go? It shouldn't be outrageously expensive.

When you discover a little bistro that's not in your neighborhood, you might even find yourself fantasizing about moving to that neighborhood. Much as I did on a recent evening, as I stumbled out of the Latin-inspired La Mesa in Minneapolis' Bryn Mawr in a cioppino-induced haze.

Chef Juan Yunga hails from Cuenca, Ecuador, a colonial city high in the Andes whose historic center is a UNESCO World Heritage Site. The menu is peppered with spices and ingredients native to this region, from aji (a gentle hot sauce) and mote (Andean corn) to tamarillo (red tree tomatoes). He met his wife and business partner, Ann Carlson-Yunga, two decades ago at the Nicollet Island Inn.

"We wanted to open a great neighborhood restaurant with pan-South American food," says Carlson-Yunga, "where guests can experience some of Ecuador's magical flavors."

"And their incredible hospitality," she adds with a smile. "El cariño." (This loosely translates to warmth and affection.)

On a recent Sunday, I sipped a white sangria that, according to chef Yunga, was the unofficial tipple of choice on the restaurant's inviting patio this past summer. Its sweetness comes from fresh peaches and mangos they roast in their wood-burning oven, lending a decidedly South American twist to the classic Spanish drink. (The oven, a centerpiece of the bar area, also churns out appealing-looking pizzas, including a roasted corn special with cotija, roasted garlic, and cilantro.)

I was fairly thrilled at my first foray into llapingachos, a classic Ecuadorian preparation of potato cakes stuffed with cheese. I've enjoyed many a potato cake, from Swiss rösti to Czech bramboracky to Jewish latkes, and am generally a fan. Yet Yunga's version—oozing with queso fresco, spiked with aji, studded with those luscious tamarillos—transcends mere comfort food and ventures into the borderlands of the sublime.

Cioppino is a dish that, done well, announces itself on the way to the table by wafting a trail of fragrant steam through the air. Such was the case with the heady bowl my server gently set down: mussels, jumbo shrimp, gorgeous scallops, and mahi-mahi swimming in a rich broth of tomato and fresh basil with a gentle kick of spice.

Everything's made from scratch here, which means the flan—a dessert that can easily turn alarmingly gelatinous—is a creamy thing of beauty made without shortcuts: cream rather than condensed milk, delicately scented with fresh orange.

The bar area offers cozy seating for couples and solo diners: Choose between a long, black bar offering a view of the wood-burning oven, or a row of little candlelit tables flanking the industrial-chic glass and aluminum garage doors. Beyond, the high-ceilinged dining room amps up the drama with dark wood, dramatic lighting, and eye-popping giant canvases painted by accomplished local artist Thor Eric Paul.

It's friendly, cozy, and also a little bit sexy. And isn't that exactly the kind of elusive magic a great neighborhood bistro can summon? 230 Cedar Lake Rd. S., Minneapolis, 612-259-8943; lamesampls.com. —SARAH CHANDLER

COMEDY

TOMMY RYMAN

ACME COMEDY CO.

“Last year my album came out and I released a special,” says comedian Tommy Ryman. “These days I’m kind of all over the place, just trying to cram in some new stuff. There’s a little bit of politics, family stuff, and things I’ve talked about in the past.” The special has gained some traction thanks to one of his jokes going viral. “It was about my mom, who is a bit of a hippie, activating rivers,” he says. So many people are familiar with the story of his mom using crystals to “activate” rivers that he can refer to it in his set, even if he doesn’t do the bit. “The week that I’m at Acme, I’m going to try and have bunch of new stuff since that material is out there, but the activating rivers one I can call back to.” 18+. 8 p.m. Wednesday, Friday through Saturday; 10:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. $15-$18. 708 N. First St., Minneapolis; 612-338-6393.

DRINXGIVING

JAMES BALLENTINE “UPTOWN” VFW

For many, this is a short work week. Wednesday is now a Friday, with the gainfully employed making their way to the bars one last time before family obligations start up. One place to toast to the four-day weekend is at the Uptown VFW, where Drinxgiving will return to kick the holidays off right. During the night, folks will dance and drink to DJ sets from local music masters Shannon Blowtorch, Fundo McGee, and Sophia Eris. Expect a little bit of everything—just like a Thanksgiving meal!—with tunes covering pop, funk, rock, R&B, and hip-hop anthems. Rap wordsmith Psalm One will also take the stage. 21+. 9 p.m. $6. 2916 Lyndale Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-823-6233. —JESSICA ARMBRUSTER

5TH ANNIVERSARY PARTY

SOCIABLE CIDER WERKS

Sociable Cider Werks can claim to be the first of many things in the Twin Cities metro area: They were the first to offer crowlers, they were the first to have resident food trucks, and they were the first urban cider makers (though, technically, they are a brewery). They’ll be celebrating those accomplishments and more this Friday as they turn five. Festivities will include shopping onsite (it is Black Friday, after all), with vendors from the Minneapolis Craft Market. So you’ll be able to cross items off your gift list and party at the same time. Live music will be provided by Red Eye Ruby, the Gentlemen’s Anti-Temperance League, Mississippi Hot Club, Miss Myra and the Moonshiners, and Haldy Music. Sociable will tap a new release every hour; a roasted strawberry/black pepper Freewheeler, a Mexican Milk Stout, a lime/ginger Freewheeler, and ciders aged in cognac, bourbon, and cabernet barrels are all on the menu.

The Fat Bike Mulled Apple Cider will also return, proving that winter isn’t all bad. All ages. Noon to midnight. Free. 1500 Fillmore St. NE, Minneapolis; 612-758-0105. —LOREN GREEN

COMEDY

JOHN ROY

RICK BRONSON’S HOUSE OF COMEDY

Comedian John Roy has had a few big life experiences since he last visited the Twin Cities. “I had a pacemaker put in,” he reports. “I had heart surgery when I was a kid, and there were some complications.” He’s fine now, he just looks a little different. “With the pacemaker I have to take blood thinners, so I didn’t want to shave my head anymore,” he explains. “I grew a beard and it came in gray. I didn’t know I was going to look like Tim Allen in the The Santa Clause.” He’s also dressing differently. “I used to wear concert tees and hoodies onstage, but when you have a gray beard you can’t wear that without looking like an oyster farmer. If they wanted guys my age to wear graphic T-shirts, they’d make ones for Turbo Tax and Hardball with Chris Matthews.” Onstage, he’s doing some material from his last album, Everything’s Burning, along with newer material. “I talk about racism, because that’s a problem won’t go away,” he says. “I wish those jokes were no longer relevant.” 16+. 7:30 and 9:45 p.m. Friday; 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday; 9:30 p.m. Saturday. $16-$23. 408 E. Broadway, Mall of America, Bloomington; 952-858-8558. Through Sunday —P.F. WILSON

HOLIDAY

HOLIDAZZLE 2018

LORING PARK

Despite its many transformations over the years, Holidazzle continues to thrive. Once a nightly parade, these days Holidazzle is a yuletide village that celebrates Minnesota's unique character. The festival in Loring Park boasts an array of diversions for all ages, including complimentary ice skating, outdoor movie screenings, live music, and fireworks. Santa Claus will be making the rounds, and there will be a special kids' zone stocked with slides, mazes, and a climbing wall. Adults will find their own form of refuge in the Fulton beer garden, where the Minneapolis brewery is tapping the Holidazzle-exclusive Proper Porter. Those hankering for further sustenance will find a wide assortment of local vendors serving up a smorgasbord of food and drink. At the holiday market, shoppers can peruse handcrafted gifts, jewelry, apparel, and more. As for those seeking a reminder of Holidazzle's classic light shows, Christopher Lutter-Gardella's Wolf and Moose, an interactive twinkling art installation (made from 90 percent recycled materials), will return. For the daily lineup and more info, visit www.holidazzle.com. 5 to 9 p.m. Thursdays; 5 to 10 p.m. Fridays; 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturdays; 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays. Free. 1382 Willow St., Minneapolis. Through December 23 —BRAD RICHASON

Roberts was a standout. Known for terrifying opponents with his ever-present pet python, Roberts was positioned to be a villain before the crowd support dictated his shift to hero. Whether defeating his rivals with a dreaded DDT (his signature finishing move) or delivering menacing on-camera promos, Roberts had charisma to burn, establishing himself as one of the most formidable figures of the era. But behind the scenes, Roberts was facing drug and alcohol addiction along with an accumulation of excruciating injuries, and he found himself in career exile. In recent years, Roberts has mounted a remarkable personal comeback, devoting himself to sobriety and health. The man retains a wicked wit, as will be evidenced in his speaking engagement at the Cabooze. For his Dirty Details tour, Roberts will share not just the tawdry tales of being on the wrestling circuit during its most decadent years, but his courage in seeking personal redemption outside the ring. 18+.

PARTY

1991 ISSUE 001 LAUNCH PARTY

PUBLIC FUNCTIONARY

On Black Friday, 1991 is set to launch. The new culture magazine/DIY zine hybrid highlights Somali fashion, music, arts, and culture. Over 120 pages, the first issue is a labor of love. Local writer Safy-Hallan Farah, who has worked with publications like Vogue and the New York Times, has organized a team of creatives who have curated content from international contributors. Filled with interviews, essays, profiles, and gorgeous photographs, 1991 showcases the Somali diaspora across the globe. You'll be able to pick up an issue at the launch party, where host Sadeeq Ali will oversee a fun evening that includes performances by Tribal East, F., and Jija, plus a DJ set from Prol. Find tickets and more info at www.eventbrite.com. 7 to 10:30 p.m. $6/$10 at the door. 1400 12th Ave. NE, Minneapolis; 612-978-5566. —SHEILA REGAN

BLACK FRIDAY LOCAL POP-UP SHOPS

VARIOUS LOCATIONS

Every week, local businesses and artist studios will host pop-up shops and special markets. For Black Friday and Small Business Saturday, there are a handful of events that could save you a trip to the mall or time spent surfing the internet. Fair State Brewing Cooperative (2506 Central Ave. NE, Minneapolis; 612-444-3209) will host a holiday market from noon to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Vendors include cityscape screen-printed tees from Fashion Assassin, local hot sauce (Nuclear Nectar) and honey (Houndstooth Mpls), and the easiest gift of all, fresh coffee from Gutter Punk Coffee. Plus you can shop while enjoying a pint of beer. Meanwhile, over in St. Paul, the Schmidt Holiday Market (900 W. Seventh St., St Paul; 651-842-2980) will showcase a variety of local artists and vendors, plus a pop-up music store. Event hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday. Made By Hands at Bauhaus Brew Labs (1315 Tyler St. NE, Minneapolis; 612-276-6911) runs from noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and will also offer beer with gig posters, sassy cross stitch, jewelry, and other highly giftable items. Finally, for avid readers on your shopping list, Milkweed Books (1011 Washington Ave. S., Ste. 300, Minneapolis; 612-332-3192) will have coffee, treats, discounts, and specials during business hours on Saturday. —JESSICA ARMBRUSTER

THEATER

MARIE AND ROSETTA

PARK SQUARE THEATRE

While the African American men who built the foundation for rock 'n' roll still don't get their proper due, many of their black female peers remain virtually unknown. Such is the case with Sister

Rosetta Tharpe, a fierce gospel guitar slinger who was just posthumously inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. George Brant's Marie and Rosetta, having its regional premiere at Park Square Theatre under the direction of Frank Theatre's Wendy Knox, finds the pioneer in 1946, preparing for a tour with her new protégé, Marie Knight. Gary Hines (Sounds of Blackness) serves as musical director for a production full of tunes ranging from spiritual to secular, as Tharpe unpacks her pioneering style and points the way toward the future that her musical descendants will inherit. 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays; 2 p.m. Sundays. $20-$40. 20 W. Seventh Place, Historic Hamm Building, St. Paul; 651-291-7005. Through December 30 —JAY GABLER

DANCE CHOREOGRAPHERS' EVENING 2018

WALKER ART CENTER

The lineup for this perennial favorite invariably reflects the sensibilities of the curator. This year she's Pramila Vasudevan, a 2017 Guggenheim Fellow and the founding artistic director of Aniccha Arts, whose technologically forward, socially conscious, and often site-specific work is based in classical and contemporary Indian dance forms. Whom will she select? And how will they confront, embrace, or reinvent the Walker's McGuire Theater? Now in its 46th year, this annual event is always full of surprises, whether the choreographers are established or emerging. 7 and 9:30 p.m. $25. 725 Vineland Place, Minneapolis; 612-375-7600. —CAMILLE LEFEVRE

PERFORMANCE

THE NEW RENAISSANCE PT. III

SOUTHERN THEATER

Nationally touring poet Joe Davis combines music, performance, and dance in his latest show, The New Renaissance Pt. III. Davis refers to the evening as a "concert and choreopoem" in a nod to the late playwright Ntozake Shange. The new production, which marks Davis' directorial debut, features a cast of interdisciplinary artists, including students from Washburn High School's Blackbox Theatre program, as well as local professional dancers, singers, musicians, poets, and artists. In the work, seven musicians discover that they are able to open trans-dimensional portals through music. It's a story about healing, self-discovery, and transformation told through the lens of Afro-futurism. All ages. 6 to 9 p.m. $15/$20 at the door. 1420 Washington Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-326-1811. —SHEILA REGAN

BOOKS

ANDREA GIBSON

FINE LINE MUSIC CAFE

Andrea Gibson is the kind of poet who sends shivers down your spine. Whether in spoken-word form or on the page, Gibson doles out brutal truths wrapped in tender, beautiful verses. Gibson's new book, Lord of the Butterflies, released by Minneapolis-based publisher Button Poetry, is the author's most vulnerable yet, featuring a mix of personal and political poetry. From the devastating "Ivy," about visiting an ex's new apartment, to "Orlando," a grief-stricken meditation on the Pulse nightclub shooting, Gibson lays emotions bare but doesn't indulge in hopelessness. Whip-smart Gibson rants about privilege in "White Feminism (Noun)" and gets real about hook-up culture in "Dear Tinder." While Gibson could simply amuse with clever turns of phrase, the poet chooses to go deeper. Ultimately, these pieces are about saving your own life, claiming your identity, and becoming an activist for the voiceless. 18+. 7:30 p.m. $20-$35. 318 First Ave. N., Minneapolis; 612-338-8100. —ERICA RIVERA

FAMILY PLOT

The women of Steve McQueen's Widows slyly subvert the heist flick

TWENTIETH CENTURY FOX

BY BRYAN MILLER

Widows' opening scenes play like the final 10 minutes of a traditional heist movie: An experienced team of thieves improvises a crash course away from a plan gone wrong. The elusive big score begets bullet-riddled comeuppance. Cue the orchestra.

But wait, there's more.

The story keeps going after the credits usually start rolling.

The dead crew leaves behind families to suffer the consequences. A gangster (Brian Tyree Henry) with political ambitions visits Veronica (Viola Davis), the wife of dead ringleader Harry (Liam Neeson), to let her know he expects her to repay the two million dollars her husband stole.

Veronica is posh, proud, and cash poor. Her only major asset is a notebook her husband left behind cataloging the details of the last job and the plans for the next one. To gain her independence, she'll recruit her fellow widows to pull off their late husbands' final caper.

Widows is a deconstructed heist flick that bends a familiar structure around a slew of disparate themes and subplots. Veronica still goes through the usual beats: She recruits her mismatched partners (a struggling single mom played by Michelle Rodriguez and a victimized second-generation immigrant played by Elizabeth Debicki), she troubleshoots a convoluted scheme, they secure weapons and supplies and a speedy getaway driver (Cynthia Erivo). But the film is at least as interested in the struggles that led these women to steal as it is in the mechanics of the robbery itself.

Widows packs an astonishing amount of story into just over two hours. Despite the brisk pace, it pauses to consider income inequality, police brutality, racial politics, gender politics, and regular old politics-politics. A diversion about the getaway driver's day job at a salon and the backdrop of an alderman's race between Tyree Henry's gangster and a southside Chicago legacy politician (Colin Farrell) eventually intertwine. And that's not even mentioning Robert Duvall's doddering racist patriarch, Get Out's Daniel Kaluuya as a sadistic enforcer, or Garret Dillahunt's bit part as an addled NFL star-turned-chauffeur. There's a lot going on here.

Almost too much, which makes sense given that the film is based on a British TV series by Prime Suspect creator Lynda

WIDOWS

directed by Steve McQueen area theaters, now open

La Plante. Ace novelist Gillian Flynn has significantly reimaged the story in an American setting, and she manages to keep the intricate plot threads untangled while providing her signature acid dialogue.

This is director Steve McQueen's follow-up to 2014's Oscar-winning 12 Years a Slave. It's a treat to see him put his fine-arts background to work on a slick, smart thriller for grownups. (In this sense it's reminiscent of—and superior to—fashion designer Tom Ford's compelling 2016 mystery Nocturnal Animals.) McQueen's films have heretofore been terrific but taxing. Widows isn't a trifle, but the thoughtful riff on Hollywood tropes permits the viewer to fully enjoy the beauty of McQueen's stark but glossy aesthetic.

Widows constantly defies the conventions it feigns to work within. Even when the potboiler plot tilts toward melodrama, it remains a beautifully executed showcase for Davis' pure, perfect badassery. She's a celestial force who captures cameras and co-stars in her orbit, and whose gravity presses the audience back into their seats. A-

SHANTIES ON ICE

Future precarious for Art Shanty Projects

JILL EMMER

BY THERESA BECKHUSEN

Since 2005, the Art Shanty Projects has turned frozen lakes into spaces for creativity and community, as artists and local groups build shanties with distinct themes. The monthlong festival typically takes place in January.

In September, however, the Shanty organizers announced that they were unable to secure a major grant, leading to a shortfall of about $85,000. Because of this, there will be no on-ice program at all this year.

Considering the event's success at Bde Unma/Lake Harriet last year, the news is especially discouraging. The fest's first year in Minneapolis (it had previously camped out on White Bear Lake and Medicine Lake in Plymouth) had over 40,000 visitors.

Event coordinators have decided to use their time off to step back and take stock. "We're committed to being here in the future," says board co-chair Saulaman Schlegel.

What that future looks like is currently unclear. Since the announcement, the project has been the focus of two community meetings. Attendees discussed a variety of possibilities, including finding corporate sponsorship, diversifying funding sources, charging admission, and partnering with another organization.

In the past, participating artists have received a $1,500 stipend. "That amount was never going to compensate me for anything but the building materials for my shanty," says artist Alyssa Baguss. While she loves the Art Shanty experience, "this is not a sustainable way to live unless you are privileged. Higher artist compensation is absolutely necessary."

Many attendees spoke directly to the costs and labor involved in building a shanty and exhibiting it for a month. An artist from the Chef Shanty estimated that it took 132 hours to build the structure.

Artist Giuliana Pinto says that the Art Shanties were part of the reason she moved from California to Minneapolis. "Relying on grants for an ongoing project is risky because it is never a sure thing for any number of reasons," she says. "But I believe in [the event]. I want it to keep happening."

This isn't the first time the Art Shanty Projects has taken some time off. No events happened in 2013 or 2016, but this juncture could be critical. "Large events are taxing on everyone, and wrangling artists in the dead of winter is not for the faint of heart," says Baguss. "I think it's wise they're taking a break to look at what it really takes to present this sort of event. This will define how and when they can move forward in a sustainable manner." CP

Preparing Your House & Garments For Thanksgiving

No matter what your tradition is for Thanksgiving, most of us look forward to enjoying a meal with friends or family! Preparing food may be the only thing on your mind, but it is important not to forget about the other details that make Thanksgiving Day special. If you're hosting a meal at your own house this year, having a festive tablecloth and table setting is an easy way to impress your guests.

Pilgrim Dry Cleaners can help you clean and press your tablecloths, table runners and even your comforters and bedding if you plan to have out of town guests stay with you during the holidays! Pilgrim Dry Cleaners can also help clean your favorite sweaters, dresses, shirts and other garments that fall victim to food stains.

SISTER ACT

Sister Species' Heavy Things Do Move is a beautiful group therapy session

JERARD FAGERBERG

BY JERARD FAGERBERG

Emily Kastrul sputters around the corner and bleats an apology for being late, a bike helmet high atop her hastily bunned shrub of hair. Her mouth splits into an exaggerated grin as she swings a plastic bag from behind her back.

"I hope you're hungry, 'cause I brought burritos!"

I'd been sitting in a red room with Emily's sister Abby Kastrul for 10 minutes, petting her pessimistic rescue dog, Tabitha, inhaling a strange mix of salted chocolate and pickle brine. We'd chatted about how Emily, the older sibling, was the caretaker of the family—the organizer, the provider. When Emily burst into the red-walled living room with a bounty of Lake Street provisions, it felt like we'd conjured her.

Emily and Abby are the heart of the eight-piece chamber-pop group Sister Species. The band has been a shared vision of the two native Minneapolitans since 2011, but with their most fully fledged record to date set to release, the sisters are at a point of renewal. They consider 2016's Closer Now their debut; sophomore record Heavy Things Do Move (out November 29 with a show at the Cedar) brims with the maturity and perspective of musicians who understand their power and purpose.

"I love Closer Now, but there's a sense of tentativeness," Emily says. "Going into this album, we knew we had something juicy and honest that we wanted to share with other people."

While Emily talks, Abby spreads out plates and ramekins of salsa on the coffee table. Emily unwraps her vegetarian burrito and pinches apart the tortilla into manageable bites as Abby shoos Tabitha away to the kitchen. The two navigate the interview like ballet partners; cradling where the other needs cradling, making space when a flourish bursts from the other.

But things were not always as pleasant as Burrito Night in the Red Room.

When Emily and Abby were growing up in the East Isles neighborhood, the three-year age gap between them felt impassable. Emily was the consummate oldest child, succeeding in school and earning a four-year degree in biology. She now works in youth education. Abby tested boundaries. She developed a dark, defensive sarcasm, and left college to travel Europe. She tried a career in real estate but now works as a baker. It was music, the one common denominator outside their gene pool, that finally brought them to an understanding.

"We've really learned how to support each other through this band," Emily says. "It's a part of our lives where our roles are very clear. Having this shared thing outside ourselves, that's done some healing."

The difference between Emily and Abby is accentuated on the B side of the record. Gone are the forceful trumpets and intricately woven melodies; instead, each sister sits at the piano to open her heart. First, it's Abby, charging into the challenge with her bare and uncertain confessional "Swallow Me Whole." She's curt and direct, pounding out her anxiety in uneven measures on the keyboard. It's shaky but gorgeous, and her lyrics read like she'd never meant to sing them aloud.

Emily's answer, album closer "That Dries Out That Is Dust," opens with an angelic coo, the elder sister singing like she's traipsing through a garden thinking up revelations. Her lyrics are charming but abstract, calling listeners away from the jerking piano lines into the filigree of her words. It's here that she dreams up the album's title, imagining herself as a canyon to articulate the slow pace of her maturation.

"There's a lot of autonomy in how each of us chooses to write," Emily says. She attributes the record's cohesion to the influence of their bandmates. "Abby and I are pretty different songwriters, but when you have seven or eight people in the space who are bringing their perspective to it, that becomes the thread."

For Sister Species, therapy comes in orchestral layers that are often emotionally at odds with the lyrics' meaning. The three-part trumpet cohort of Jake Baldwin, Sten Johnson, and Noah Ophoven-Baldwin injects Heavy Things Do Move with a jaunt that makes it forget itself. Opener "Flatline," a fear-stricken tune about Abby's antidepressant regimen, is a folksy waltz. "Take It Easy," a dismissal of anyone who'd write off her mental illness as an overreaction, bursts into brassy resplendence right just as Abby's at her most pissed-off, with drummer Lars Johnson carrying the finish off like a march.

Heavy Things Do Move addresses a list of afflictions that reads like a government-mandated disclaimer. Anxiety, loss, intimacy, desire, depression, and exhaustion—heavy things, as the title would have it—are all cited in the album's press material. But these are not clinical side effects or emotional boogeymen. These are hellscapes that have been conquered.

"Playing in the band is a space of healing for lots of us," Emily says. "When I'm feeling a heavy feeling, writing a song is how I get it out of my body. Then, it turns into something you can look at and is finite. A song is three and a half minutes long or whatever, and through that, you can exist with that very heavy thing, or very close to it, and then you can let go of it."

Tabitha grounds herself with a low growl, interrupting Emily. She springs and, in a too-obvious metaphor, chases Abby's cat behind the couch. Abby returns from the kitchen with a fresh-baked cookie, then takes away what's left of Emily's picked-apart burrito. Before she leaves, she encourages her two familiars to continue their chase around the red room.

Abby attributes the band's growth and synthesis to chance—they've gone through it, so they get it. Emily, biology student that she is, attributes it to the formation of each's prefrontal cortex. Whatever the explanation, the Kastrul sisters and their orchestra of compatriots have found a way through the chaos to something beautiful. CD

MUSIC CRITICS' PICKS

ATLANTIS QUARTET

VIEUX CARRÉ, FRIDAY 11.23

Twin Cities premier modern jazz band Atlantis Quartet's fifth album, Hello Human, focuses on original music that's fresh, malleable, and roots-savvy. The sallies of guitarist Zacc Harris and saxophonist Brandon Wozniak explore complex contours and plumb emotional depth, while drummer Pete Hennig and bassist Chris Bates define the rhythms with slippery grooves and conspiratorial angles. Standouts include the bristly "Ghost Tension," boppish "Aggressive Pretender," and the funky, Caribbean-tinged "Five Corners." It's music brimming with intriguing ideas, easily making that human connection. 9 p.m. $10-$15. 408 St. Peter St., St. Paul; 651-291-2715.

—RICK MASON

NOVO AMOR

CEDAR CULTURAL CENTER, SATURDAY 11.24

With Welsh singer-songwriter Ali Lacey's background creating karaoke, film, and sound sample tracks, it's little wonder his debut album, Birthplace, has cinematic sweep. Lacey, also known as Novo Amor, creates songs that ebb and flow among sighing reveries, lush atmospherics, chamber pop, folkie interludes, and cascading rock, often pausing for effect before exhilarating crescendos. Acoustic guitar picking morphs into zinging strings, percussive thunder, or blaring horns, all while his falsetto vocals waft above the fray, reflecting on the past, losses, and heartache with blissful melancholy. Gia Margaret opens. 8 p.m. $17.50-$20. 416 Cedar Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-338-2674. —RICK MASON

YOUNG DRO

CABOOZE, SATURDAY 11.24

Atlanta rapper Young Dro's proper albums and charting hits (like the ringtone-era smash "Shoulder Lean" and, later, "FDB") may come few and far between, but he's had a purposeful run as a mixtape-oriented regional star and mainstay of T.I.'s Grand Hustle label. While his most widely known songs are remembered for their classic Southern-rap repetition, Dro loyalists know he has an underrated flair for dense rhyme sprees. That joy of rapping is evident throughout the heart-racing freestyles of his latest tape (and 16th of the decade), Adderall Flow. With Gorilla Zoe. 11 p.m. $40/$60. 917 Cedar Ave. S., Minneapolis; 612-338-6425. —MICHAEL MADDEN

FREE WILL ASTROLOGY

>> By Rob Breznysy

♈ ARIES (March 21-April 19): In his autobiography On the Move, neurologist Oliver Sacks praised his friend Jerry's curiosity and knowledge. "Jerry has one of the most spacious, thoughtful minds I have ever encountered, with a vast base of knowledge of every sort," wrote Sacks, "but it is a base under continual questioning and scrutiny." So willing was Jerry to question and re-evaluate his own assumptions that Sacks said he had "seen his friend suddenly stop in mid-sentence and say, 'I no longer believe what I was about to say.'" That's the gold standard to which I hope you will aspire in the coming weeks, Aries. As bright and articulate as you'll be, you will have an even higher calling to expand your mind through continual questioning.

♉ TAURUS (April 20-May 20): In recent years, a few pioneers have gotten microchips implanted under their skin. These technological marvels enable them to open doors and turn on lights with merely a wave of their hands, or receive up-to-the-minute readings on what's transpiring inside their bodies. Now an additional frontier has arisen: people using do-it-yourself kits to experiment on their own DNA. For example, some have tweaked their genes so their bodies create more muscle than is natural. I would love for you to change yourself around in the coming weeks, Taurus, but not in these particular ways. I'd rather see you do subtle psychological and spiritual work. The astrological omens suggest it's a favorable time for focused self-transformation.

♊ GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Are you smart enough to take advantage of the fact that your best relationships would benefit from bursts of innovative energy in the coming weeks? Are you brave enough to banish the ghost that still haunts your romantic life? Do you have the movie to explore frontiers with collaborators who play fair and know how to have fun? Will you summon the curiosity and initiative to learn new strategies about how to enhance your approach to intimacy? I'll answer those questions in your behalf: yes, yes, yes, and yes.

♋ CANCER (June 21-July 22): Would you agree with me that there are both boring, tiresome problems and fun, interesting problems? If so, read on. According to my analysis of the astrological omens, you're at a fork in your path where you could either get further involved with a boring, tiresome problem or else a fun, interesting one. (I think you'll have to engage with one or the other.) Of course, I'm rooting for you to proactively wrangle with the fun, interesting one. Here's timely inspiration from Cancerian author John W. Gardner: "We are continually faced with a series of great opportunities brilliantly disguised as insoluble problems."

♌ LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The Jharia Coalfield in eastern India is a 110-square-mile reserve of underground coal. In some places, it's on fire, and has been burning for over a hundred years. This isn't a good thing. It's wasteful and causes pollution. But now I'll ask you to put aside that scenario, and imagine a more benevolent kind of steadily burning fire: a splendor in your soul that never stops radiating warmth and light, that draws from an inexhaustible source of fuel that is a constant source of strength and courage and power. I'm happy to tell you that the coming months will be a favorable time to establish and nurture this eternal flame.

♍ VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Marilyn Monroe, Georgia O'Keeffe, and President Franklin Roosevelt were direct descendants of the pilgrims who sailed from England to the New World on the famous Mayflower ship in 1620. I, on the other hand, am a direct descendant of a 19th-century Slovakian coal miner who toiled in the underground darkness. What about you, Virgo? Now would be a rich and provocative time to reconnect with your roots; to remember where your people originated; to explore the heritage that served as the matrix from which you sprouted.

♎ LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): According to researchers who study animal behavior at two Italian universities, chickens can do arithmetic. The birds don't even need to be trained; the skill seems to be innate. (Read details here: tinyurl.com/ChickensDoMath.) I'm wondering whether chickens born under the sign of Libra might even be able to do algebra in the coming weeks. According to my assessment of the astrological omens, the mental acuity of many Libran creatures will be at a peak. How will you use your enhanced intelligence?

♏ SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): In March 2005, far more people than usual won big money in a regional Powerball lottery in the U.S. The average for each draw is four winners, but on this special occasion, 110 players were awarded at least $100,000 and as much as $500,000. The reason for the anomaly seemed to have been an oracle that appeared in a number of widely distributed fortune cookies. It provided five of the six winning numbers. Inspired by this crazy stroke of good fortune, and in accordance with the favorable financial omens now coming to bear on you, I hereby offer you six numbers to use as your lucky charms. Will they help you win a game of chance? I can't be sure. At the very least, they will titillate and massage the part of your psyche that is magnetic to wealth. Here they are: 37, 16, 58, 62, 82, 91.

♐ SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): "You have two ways to live your life," writes spiritual teacher Joseph Vitale, "from memory or inspiration." In other words, you can take your cues about how to live your life from what happened in the past, or else you can make your decisions based on what you're excited to do and become in the future. According to my analysis, the next ten months will be an excellent time for you to fully embrace the latter approach. And it all starts now.

♑ CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You've always got more help available than you imagine, and that's especially true these days. Both people you know and people you don't know may come to your assistance and offer extra support—especially if you meet two conditions: 1. you sincerely believe you deserve their assistance and support; 2. you clearly ask for their assistance and support. Now here's more good news about the help that's available. Whether or not you believe in spiritual beings, they, too, are primed to offer blessings and resources. If you don't believe in their existence, I invite you to pretend you do and see what happens. If you do believe in them, formulate clear requests for what you'd like them to offer you.

♒ AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): In one of his poems, Arthur Rimbaud extolled the exquisite evenings when the mist soaked his face as he strolled, and he sighed that heavenly dew till he was drunk. Was he speaking literally or metaphorically? Probably both, if I know Rimbaud. Anyway, Aquarius, I'd love for you to engage in similar exploits. What are some natural adventures that might intoxicate you? What simple pleasures may alter your consciousness, nudging you free of its habits? Meditate with sweet abandon on how to free yourself through the power of play and the imagination.

♓ PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): It's illegal to hunt animals in Kenya. But members of the Dorobo tribe circumvent the law to provide food for their families. As three or more Dorobo men wander out on the savanna, they wait for hungry lions to kill a wildebeest or other creature. Then they stride toward the feasting beasts in a calm show of force until the predators run away in confusion. The brave scavengers swoop in and swiftly remove a portion of the wildebeest, then coolly walk away, leaving plenty for the lions when they return to their meal. I bring this scene to your attention, Pisces, because I suspect that in the coming weeks you will have similar levels of courage and poise as you go after what you want.

SAVAGE LOVE

Escort Out

Do I need to tell my casual sex partner that I'm an escort?

Dan Savage

I'm a recently divorced single mom and full-time student. I'm really beginning to hurt financially and have decided to start working as an escort. I am at a point of great emotional stability, happiness, and confidence—all reasons that led to my decision—and I'm surrounded by people who love me and won't judge me. (Not that I will be telling most of them.) I've been seeing a man who I like, but I've made it clear that I am not committed to him and can see him only once a week. I've explained that I don't think I can ever be monogamous and I do not want a relationship. He has struggled with this and told me early on he was in love with me. We have AMAZING sex, and I think this causes him to have a hard time understanding why I don't want a relationship. I do not want to tell him I am escorting. I feel the fewer people who know, the better. And I don't know him that well, as I have been "seeing" him for only six months. I know he would want to know, and a huge part of me feels that the right thing to do is be honest with him if I am going to continue seeing him. I also know that cutting him loose would hurt and confuse him, especially without being able to give him a reason. How do I handle this? What is the right thing to do? My site goes live in three days, and what's keeping me up at night is not how best to verify clients, it's what to do about the man in my life who I respect and love, even if I am not in love with him.

NEW TO ESCORTING

Let's set the escorting issue aside for a moment. You don't want the same things (he wants monogamy and a defined relationship, you don't want any of that shit), you don't feel for him the way he feels for you (he's in love, you're not), and you're a busy single mom and full-time student—all perfectly valid reasons to end a relationship, NTE. You aren't obligated to tell him that something you were thinking about doing but haven't yet done, i.e., escorting, factored into your decision to cut him loose.

While I definitely think people have a right to know if their partners are escorts, I don't think people have an absolute right to know if their partners were escorts. So if the sex is really good, and you think there's a chance you could one day feel as strongly for him as he does for you, and you're planning to escort only until you get your degree, NTE, you could tell him you want to take a break. Explain to him that you don't have the bandwidth for a boyfriend just now—kid, school, work—but you're open to dating him after you're out of school if he's still single and still interested.

I am a 30-year-old hetero woman. Any ideas on how a person can build up to healthy intimate relationships again while recovering from trauma? I'm afraid in normal sexual situations. How can I get to a point where I can have sex for fun and not in a way where I'm triggering my fight-or-flight response? Yes, I am seeing a therapist.

TRAUMATIC EXPERIENCE
NULLIFYING SEXUAL ENERGY

Here's an idea, TENSE, but please run it by your therapist before giving it a try: Find a guy you like and propose a different kind of friends-with-benefits arrangement. You will be in charge—you will do all the initiating—and while he can say no to anything you ask, he isn't to ask for or initiate anything himself. You set the menu, you make the rules, you give the orders. He'll need to be someone you trust, and it'll help if he's someone who thinks following orders is sexy—and trust me, TENSE, those guys are out there. You said that normal sexual situations aren't working for you. Maybe an abnormal one would?
